History and architecture

Poznań's surrounding areas were the site of many battles, both in the times of Władysław Łokietek (the battle of Pałędzie with the teutonic Knights), and during Wielkopolskie Uprising in 1918-1919. Historical figures, such as Napoleon Bonaparte, went through and stayed in the city. It was there that great houses built their abodes like the Górka family and later their successors the Działyński family in Kórnik. The traces of this heritage can be seen in many mansions and palaces. Poznań's neighbouring towns and villages have also been home to famous Poles, such as the Nobel Prize winner Wisława Szymborska, who was born in Kórnik, or the social activist, philosopher and reformer August Cieszkowski, who was a resident of Wierzenica. Everyone can find something for themselves here – from medieval settlements, to wooden churches, numerous museums, to lavish palaces.

The most interesting memorabilia and trophies from many travels of Polish writer and traveller Arkady Fiedler and his sons have been gathered in the museum (at old house of Fiedler's family). A very original attraction is the real life-sized replica of Christopher Columbus' legendary ship, Santa Maria. The Garden of Cultures and Tolerance surrounding the Museum building holds an unusual collection of sculptured replicas of famous ancient monuments, including the Bolivian Gate of the Sun, an Aztec calendar and an Easter Islands statue. Another popular piece is the replica of a Hurricane aircraft with an exhibit devoted to Polish pilots involved in the Battle of Britain during the Second World War.

Halszka's Keep is a late-Gothic tower built in 15th century and it was incorporated in the ramparts of the former castle. It owes its name to Duchess Elżbieta Ostrogska, called Halszka. In the 16th century, at the decree of king Zygmunt August, she was to be married to Łukasz III Górka against her will. According to legend, he locked her in the tower for 14 years, putting a black metal mask on her face. Today, the tower houses a museum with a collection of religious icons among its exhibits.

The history of the mill goes as far back as 1905. Most likely, it was built by the miller Griebusch. The construction of this windmill is the only one of its kind in Wielkopolska; it is a wooden smock mill, octagonal in plan, equipped with a steam engine for use on windless days. The entire mill machinery was made of the exotic lignum vitae wood, with hemp and camel wool ropes. Now, the windmill houses an exhibit devoted to traditional milling.

The monastery was raised around 1250. Today, it is a late Baroque church of John the Baptist, and the monastery walls house the Special Educational Centre for Visually Impaired Children. In the nearby park there is the only Spatial Orientation Park in Europe, where the visually impaired children learn how to move about in an open space (it is open also for visitors).

Upon prior arrangement, you can also visit the unique Typhological Museum and the Aromatorium – the Library of Scents.

This petite, picturesque temple was built in the 1730's, in the place of a former church. What distinguishes it is its brick-filled, timber framing – a form of post-beam construction. The interiors are in the richly adorned rococo style. The church itself is part of the Trail of Wooden Churches around Puszcza Zielonka.

The Church of the Birth of the Blessed Virgin Mary was raised in the first half of the 13th century in the late-Romanesque style. It was rebuilt in the 15th, 16th and late 18th century. It is one of the 10 Marian sanctuaries on Papal Law located in Poznań archdiocese. The Tulce sanctuary is also on the Roman Trail. The statue of Tulecka Pani from the 1500's, a Baroque main altar and side altars from the 17th century can be seen inside.

This antique wooden church was built in 1760. It has remained mostly unspoilt till this day with its original murals depicting scenes from St. Wojciech's life. Among the church's most prized possessions are a crucifix and a stone font from the turn of the 15th and 16th century. At the church there is also a well-preserved wooden belfry from 1757 and an "Ecce Homo" statue from 1762.

Poznań is surrounded by many lakes and forests. Only 15 km south of Poznań there is Wielkopolski National Park, or the nearby Rogaliński Landscape Park. Although different in character, the areas North-East of the city, with Puszcza Zielonka Landscape Park and Promno Landscape Park, are equally attractive. The natural surrounding of Poznań is complemented by the vast stretches of the Noteć Forest, river valleys (of Warta, Wełna, Cybina and Wiryńka rivers) as well as small but inviting nature reserves.
